A Gala Day at Pelzer.

Show held at Pelzer last Saturday was a success. Notwithstanding the weather fore-casts for a rainy and cool day, the attendance was fine and the exhibits were pretty full and good in all the departments. It would take nothing less than a Mt. Pelee outburst to squelch the secretary of the show, Ed Woodside. He is simply undaunted under all circumstonces, and where you know he is the leader in any sort of an undertaking you can put it down as an assured success. The lowering clouds which bespread the Heavens above throughout the morning kept back lots of exhibitors both from Anderson and Greenville—in fact, from the whole surrounding country. The Secretary pulled himself and his resources together and gave a very creditable show. Below we find a list of premium takers:

E. F. Woodside's alligator and coon attracted much notice.

The Secretary has evidently failen in love with the old Vets. From the many pleasant expressions we heard we believe it is mutual. Over 600 cups of delicious coffee, with sandwiches, were served the Veterans and their wives free of cost.

Mr. Editor, why don't Anderson bestir herself and get up a stock show or fair or mechanical and industrial show of her resources? She could not be excelled if the effort was made. They beget a generous rivalry among all classes which can only be for the upbuilding of the County along every line.

building of the County along every line.

Our Graded School lopened up last Monday morning with an enrollment of 300 pupils. It has an Anderson County raised young man at its head—Ernest R. Tucker—a recent graduate of the Citadel. Mr. Tucker comes well qualified for the high and exalted position which he assumes. He will be ably assisted by Miss Robbie Wakefield, in charge of the 5th and 6th grades, Miss Bradley 4th grade. Mrs. W. D. Goodwin 3d grade, Miss Estelle Heyward 2d grade, Miss Agnes Bell 1st grade C. Miss Noette Reid 1st grade B. Miss Mamie Barton 1st grade A. The Kindergarten is in charge of Misses Ethel Sudlow and Eloise Bradley. Even with this able corps of teachers the success of the present 3chool year will depend in a great measure upon the patrons of the school. The Pelzer wfg. Co. places this intelligent and cultured body of teachers at the service of the Pelzer people free of charge, now let them show their appreciation by sending their children, and make it their business to see that they attend regularly, promptly and do their whole duty.

A. M. Lander has moved into the Superintendent's house, near mill 4.

Mrs. A. M. Reid, from Greenville, has moved to the Lander house on Lebby street in front of the Antrim. Mrs. Reid and family are welcomed to Pelzer.

Judge Pinckney, spent last week in Pelzer.

Judge Pinckney, accompanied by Mrs. Pinckney, spent last week in Norfolk, Va. The Judge represented South Carolina in the Great Council of Red Men held in that city. The Judge says he had a great time. He evidently made an impression on the newspaper reporters, as one of them spoke of him as a large manufacturer. The supposition is that the Judge was busy spinning yarns. He can't be beat a good market for his manufactured goods.

ast Sanday was a proud day for one of the Methodist Church. The Chargegation worshipped in their pretty new church, with Dr. Sam'l Landan leading the service. A Bold Thief.

The monotony in police circles was somewhat relieved last week by the energetic conduct of a negro thief. Thursday he stole from in front of the book store, Ben Fant's bicycle. The same afternoon he carried it to Thompson's shop to have a puncture repaired. The bicycle was recognized as the property of Mr. Fant, the negro questioned and Policeman Davis notified. The thief caught on and made a break for a place of refuge. He ran break for a place of refuge. He ran out of the back of the shop, in between the Peoples' Bank and Masonic Temple, dodged around the back of Osborne & Pearson's store, into the back door of the store of B. O. Evans & Co., grabbed an $18 overcoat, rushed out and down benefit executive. door of the store of B. O. Evans & Co., grabbed an $18 overcoat, rushed out and down Depot street and over into the Dicken farm. Policeman Davis was in hot pursuit, pushing the thief so close that he dropped the coat, which was recovered, but the negro sped on to liberty. On Friday night the same negro stole a bicycle on River street and Saturday morning offered it for sale at the Orr mill for $2.50. The Chief was notified, but before his arrival the thief "smelt a mouse" and departed, taking the bicycle with him. Coming toward the city till he reached the mile stone, he turned through the field to the railroad and doubled back toward Majors' farm. The Chief was close behind him and at length recovered the bicycle, which had been abandoned in a field, but the negro was out of sight. Returning to the city the Chief secured his young bloodhound, went back and reopened the chase. It was a wild chase through bushes and a mile or so in the creek and up the hills over to Keys' Spring where the trail was lost. The negro is known and will very likely be caught. The young hound did splendid work but was too young for such a long chase.

Denver Dots.

The last few nights have been cool enough to suggest frost. The cotton is already short and an early frost would cut it off still more. It is opening rapidly and picking is progressing finely. There will be but little in the fields by 1st November. Farmers are blue over a short crop with such low prices. But as they, generally, have practiced economy and made the crop with less expense than usual, they will come out better than they expected. Corn and forage crops are fine, which will be a great help in making both ends meet next year.
